Dear Dr. Schwarz:

Harold Joachim has just handed me the announcement of the Hill exhibition which he received in this morning's mail. I want to congratulate you on your excellent essay and tell you how I wish I could come to Middletown and see these beautiful prints. It is a great satisfaction to read something of yours again.

Every Thursday evening I conduct a class in the history of photography in the Art Institute's school and each year we are all grateful for your pioneer work on Hill which we are fortunate to have in both the German and American editions. There is nothing else which describes so well the early days of photography and I have hoped for a long time some publisher of reprints like Dover Books would make your book available again.

All good wishes to you, and if you are in Chicago at any time, please stop to see us in the print Study room.

Sincerely,

Hugh Edwards, Curator of Photography.
